Dear Colleagues,

This Newsletter provides information about decisions taken at the CoCo meeting in Paris, October 7, 2011.

You will also find the preliminary programme of the ENOP Symposium to be held in Paris, March 22-24, 2012.

In addition, the Newsletters includes reports about events in the field of Work and Organizational Psychology: 1st Ukrainian Congress on Organizational and Economic Psychology (June 29 – July 2, 2011, Kamianets-Podilsky, Ukraine); The Baltic Area Alliance Meeting (3 October, 2011, Katowice, Poland); EAWOP Small Group Meeting: Age Cohorts at Work: Understanding and Building Strength through Differences (11-13 November, 2011, Trento, Italy,).

You may find information about some current PhD Projects on WOP, which are implemented in universities of the members of ENOP (2nd phase). This information can be useful for future cooperation.

Also the Newsletter provides the information about Scholarships for students and scholars at the Erasmus Mundus Program WOP-P – Master on Work, Organizational and Personnel Psychology (2012-2013).

Details about forthcoming conferences, congresses and meetings in the field of Work, Organizational and Economic Psychology (2011-2014) are included as well.

You will find as well updated contact information of the ENOP members, résumés of their research activities and publications in 2011, and other useful information.

With all the best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

Lyudmila Karamushka

2. CoCo-Meeting, 2011

The CoCo-meeting took place in Paris, on October 7, 2011 at the new office of MAISON DES SCIENCES DE L'HOMME (190-198, Avenue de France).

Attending: David Guest, Liudmilla Karamushka, Anne Rochard, Hans de Witte, Vincent Rogard, Fred Zijlstra (minutes)

Apologies: Gudela Grote

Agenda:

- a) Opening, (Apologies, Minutes previous meeting);
- b) ENOP Membership;
- c) ENOP Budget;
- d) Annual ENOP Symposium-2012;
- e) ENOP Webpage;
- g) ENOP Newsletter;
- f) Any other Activities

a) ENOP membership:

Vincent Rogard reported that currently there are 23 listed members, however, only 19 paid their fees for 2011.

Suggestions for new ENOP members were discussed. It was decided to invite potential candidates from countries, which are not represented at all or represented inadequately in ENOP, namely from Belgium, Norway, Scotland, Italy, Germany, Russian Federation, Croatia, and Greece. Hans de Witte, Fred Zijlstra, David Guest, and Vincent Rogard will contact potential candidates.

At the next ENOP business meeting there will be time allotted to presenting new ENOP members and introducing themselves.

c) ENO Budget:

Vincent Rogard reported that 19 ENOP members paid their fee: subtracting the costs for last symposium means there is a positive balance. This is sufficient to pay the cost for this CoCo meeting.

This also means that although is operating ‘on a shoestring’ it actually has sufficient funds to continue its activities. For 2012 there is no need to increase the annual fee.

The invoices for 2012 will be send around End of November, Beginning of December, together with announcement of the program of the ENOP Annual Symposium.

d) Annual ENOP Symposium-2012:

The topic for the next ENOP Annual Symposium will be centralized around ‘Self-Determination Theory’(SDT). Hans de Witte presented an outline of the symposium. This proposal was elaborately discussed. There are suggested names for people who could present SDT and some applications. We need some names from people who would present motivation theory from a different angle. All are encouraged to come forward with names.

e) ENOP Webpage:

Over the summer David Guest has been in contact with Mare Teichmann concerning ENOP’s webpage. It needs a radical overhaul and serious updating. A Google search gives some hits on ENOP for pages that are very old and can still be opened . These pages need preferably be removed. Also ENOP’s current webpage is not kept up to date, it features ‘news items’ from 2005 and earlier. Also there is not a brief description of what ENOP is (and does).

David has produced a text on what ENOP is that could be presented on the website. Also the layout of the webpage needs to be reconsidered. Webpage should also contain info on how to contact ENOP, maybe who is CoCo, etc. David Guest will contact Mare Teichmann about this.

g) ENOP Newsletter:

Lyudmila Karamushka informed that she prepared ENOP Newsletter N 60 in July 2011 (electronic and printed versions). The electronic version was disseminated by Internet among all ENOP members. Brochures’ version was sent to Vincent Rogard for dissemination by ordinary mail. Lyudmila Karamushka informed that the next ENOP Newsletter N 61 will be prepared in December, 2011. Materials of the Newsletter will be placed as well on the ENOP web-site.

f) Any Other Activities:

-David Guest reported on the ENOP survey on common knowledge base in W&O Psychology.

The Survey results have been presented at the last Annual ENOP symposium, and featured also in the EAWOP keynote address. The report was submitted to JOOP for publication, and now there is an invitation to revise the manuscript. Related to this survey David Guest suggested that it would be useful to discuss the direction our field is taking... where is it moving? We see lots of professors moving into Business Schools. What consequences does this have for the subject and for our field? Could be a topic for an Annual Symposium? or for discussion in the Business meeting? Furthermore, ENOP needs to think of 'activities' that always have been part of ENOP's reason to exist. How can we further our field, stimulate W&O psychology? What new initiatives should be undertaken?

-A topics or the next ENOP Business Meeting were discussed.

At this point the meeting was closed. And all attendants were thanked for their contribution.

3. ENOP SYMPOSIUM 2012 ON WORK MOTIVATION: IS SELF-DETERMINATION THEORY (SDT) THE ROAD TO TAKE?

Paris, March 22-24, 2012.

Organizers: Hans De Witte & Sabine Sonnentag

Aim: To present and discuss SDT in general and in applied setting (education and work) and to compare its contribution to already existing theories in the field of work motivation.

Method: In an interactive way – possibilities for discussion and small group workshops. A selection of relevant literature will be sent to participants, so they can already prepare themselves, when they want to (or read it all afterwards, of course).

Thursday March 22 – afternoon: sipping at the theory

2 p.m. – 2.15 p.m.

Introduction: why a symposium on Self Determination Theory?

Hans De Witte (K.U.Leuven, Belgium) & Sabine Sonnentag (University of Mannheim, Germany)

2.15 p.m. – 4.00 p.m.

General overview of Self Determination Theory

Maarten Vansteenkiste (UGent, Belgium)

4.00 p.m. – 4.30 p.m.

Coffee break

4.30 p.m. - 5.30 p.m.

Interactive workshop: how to use and apply SDT in an educational setting (bachelor and master students, teaching, PhD-students)

Evening: Dinner in Paris

Friday March 23: debating its relevance and future

Before noon: Opening up the debate with pros and cons

9.30 a.m.- 11.00 a.m.

Applying SDT to Work & Organizational Psychology: where are we, what still needs to be done? A view in favour of SDT

Anja Van den Broeck (HUB-K.U.Leuven, Belgium):

11.00 a.m. – 11.30 a.m.

Coffee break

11.30 a.m. – 12.30 a.m.

A critical view: a 'non-SDT' -scholar expresses his/her doubts

Suggestions regarding possible candidates are still very welcome

12.30 a.m. – 1.30 p.m.

Lunch break

Afternoon. Putting SDT in context/ in contrast to other theories: Is SDT our future?

The idea of this afternoon is to invite other scholars in the field of work motivation and to debate its relevance in contrast to other existing theories. Starting with a general introduction in which SDT is placed in the global field of work psychology. Aim: enlarge the debate and explore alternatives.

4.30 p.m. – 5 p.m.

Closing the debate: where are we now?

4. Report about 1st Ukrainian Congress on Organizational and Economic Psychology (June, 29 – July, 2, 2011, Kamianets-Podilsky, Ukraine)

Late June - early July this year the picturesque ancient city of Kamianets-Podilsky witnessed a significant scientific event – the First Ukrainian Congress on Economic and Organizational Psychology. The Congress was organized and conducted by the Laboratory of Organizational psychology of the G.S. Kostyuk Institute of Psychology of NAPS Ukraine, Department of Psychology of Kamianets-Podilsky National University named after Ivan Ohienko, the Ukrainian Association of Organizational and Work Psychologists and the Center for Organizational and Economic Psychology.

The Congress was preceded by a series of annual conferences on economic and organizational psychology held in different regions of Ukraine. Being the first event of this magnitude in Ukraine, the Kamianets-Podilsky Congress was the logical continuation of a long-term professional collaboration between the Laboratory of organizational psychology, the Ukrainian Association of Organizational and Work Psychologists and the leading national educational and scientific organizations.

The Congress was attended by about 100 scientists and educators from different regions of Ukraine and from abroad. The Congress was greeted by the Polish Association of Organizational Psychology and the partner organization PSYCON Psychological Business Consultants, Wildeshausen, Germany.

The venue of the Congress was Kamianets National University named after Ivan Ohienko and "GALA HOTEL" complex (Kamianets-Podilsky).

At the first plenary session the participants listened to the reports about today's challenges for economic and organizational psychology as well as the presentations that covered the history, achievements, and development of organizational and economic psychology in Ukraine.

The session was followed by an excursion around the Kamianets-Podilsky National University which allowed the Congress participants to learn a lot of interesting facts about that educational institution.

Among the issues considered at the second plenary session were burnout in medical professions, correlations between perfectionism and individuals' psychological well-being, organization concept transformation, expert assessment of heads' professionally important qualities in public administration, history of the institutions of higher education as a component of their organizational culture, burnout of teachers at preschool educational institutions, economics students' attitudes toward money, development of communicative competence in employment center managers, psychology of money, university students' socio-psychological attitudes toward professional career, etc.

The first day of the Congress ended with a gala reception which gave the Congress participants a good chance to get to know each other better.

The next day the Congress had two thematic sections: Organizational Psychology and Economic Psychology.

Thematic section 1 (Organizational Psychology) had interesting presentations on educational organizations of traditional and innovative types and conditions for their organizational development, organizational behavior, bank staff teamwork readiness, civil servants' motivational profile, educational organization managers' ethnic identity, university and high school students' career orientation development, managers' professional competences, psychological characteristics of messaging by social network users, the formation of social identity in civil servants, educational organization manager' change management readiness, future managers' business communication training, stress management in organizations, psychological adaptation of personnel to educational organizations merging, social and psychological climate in educational organizations, etc.

The presentations made at thematic section 2 (Economic Psychology) considered the development of economic psychology in Ukraine, organizations' international competitiveness, psychological factors of self-efficiency in trade, prevention of burnout of employees of the State Tax Service of Ukraine, the relationships between the educational institution managers' entrepreneurial behavior and organizational development, team-building in organizations, entrepreneurs' business negotiation competence, effects of the image of money on individuals' economic behavior, economic self-determination of students and other problems.

The Congress participants had a fascinating tour of Kamianets-Podilsky enjoying the sights of the Old Town, the Town Hall, the Peter and Paul Cathedral, the Dominican and Franciscan Monasteries and the Kamianets-Podilsky Fortress built as far back as the XII-th century.

During the third day of the Congress the participants attended the workshop held by a business consultant Ute Schmidt-Brass (Germany). The World Café interactive technique allowed the colleagues to exchange views and ideas about the topical issues of Organizational Psychology and Economic Psychology in Ukraine.

The next day the heads of the sections reported on the main work results of their sections. Besides, the winners of The Best Congress Presentation contest were announced.

An interesting continuation of the day was a trip to the architectural and historical complex Khotyn Fortress located on the picturesque bank of the Dniester river..

The next day saw the meeting of the Ukrainian Association of Organizational and Work Psychologists with the report about the Association's activities over the last year and plans for the future.

The day was continued by a guided tour to the Bakota Monastery in the Podilsky National Park which will be long remembered by the Congress participants. After that there was an open air buffet with informal talks, dances and fun.

The Congress enriched its participants with unforgettable memories of the wonderful places and valuable experience.

The presentations made at the Congress can be found in The Issues of Economic and Organizational Psychology in Ukraine: abstracts of the First Ukrainian Congress on Organizational and Economic Psychology (June, 29 – July, 2, 2011, Kamianets-Podilsky, Ukraine) / editors *S.D. ## 5. The Baltic Area Alliance Meeting (Katowice, Poland, 3 October, 2011)

The Baltic Area Alliance Meeting was held on October, 3, 2011, in Katowice (Poland).

The meeting was attended by Prof. Ludmila Karamushka (Ukraine), Ph.D. Angela Carter (UK), Ph.D. Anita Pollak (Poland), MA Katarzyna Wiecek (Poland), and Prof. Barbara Kożusznik (Poland). The Baltic Area Alliance Meeting was supported by EAWOP moderated by Angela Carter, the EAWOP representative.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the assumptions of the BAAB program and to propose further directions of work on the Baltic Area Project. Moreover, the intention of the meeting was to present and discuss the results of the analyses of the data obtained in the BAAB Universities Survey.

BAAB Questionnaire Survey was done at six European universities and compared the universities' declared approaches towards teaching the WOP students according to the ENOP Reference Model. The universities which participated in the survey were: Catholic University of Lublin John Paul II (Poland); Silesian University (Poland); Volin National University named after L. Ukrainka (Ukraine); Institute of Psychology University of Wroclaw (Poland); Ivan Ohienko Kamyanets-Podilsky National University (Ukraine); I.I. Mechnikov Odessa National University (Ukraine); Zaporizhya National University (Ukraine)

The results of the analysis showed that the universities' approaches towards WOP training declared during the survey did not reach the standards postulated in the ENOP Reference Model. Furthermore, the curricula offered by the universities did not include all areas of the ENOP Reference Model, i.e. Work, Organizational and Personnel Psychology. The investigation also identified the configuration of primary and enabling competences acquired by the students during their five-year-studies at the surveyed universities and checked how the surveyed universities coped with the internship. The survey found out the major didactic methods used in W&O psychology training at the surveyed universities.

Although the results of the survey showed that the examined universities did not perfectly fit the ENOP Model it was assumed that there was a common core in the WOP teaching standards shared by the surveyed universities. In connection with the ambiguity of the obtained results it seems to be very important to take the further efforts in order to reach the consensus about the approaches and minimal standards for the common framework of the education of WOP psychologists in Europe and the knowledge and competences that are needed for WOP professionals in Poland and Ukraine.

6. EAWOP Small Group Meeting: Age Cohorts at Work: Understanding and Building Strength through Differences (Trento, Italy, 11-13 November, 2011)

Web-side <http://www.cogsci.unitn.it/sgm/>

Increases in retirement age and the aging of the working population highlight the relevance of different age cohorts in the workplace. Thus it is important to understand more fully, from the perspective of theory and practice, the role of age at work.

Different questions age and work now confront I/O/W psychologists: How do we motivate people at the end of their career, and how do we encourage them to postpone their retirement? How do we promote training and development for people at the end of their careers? How do we promote the widespread mingling of older and younger generations in the workplace? How should human resource interventions take age differences into account? How widespread are negative – and positive – stereotypes of people in different age groups at work?

These were some of the principle questions raised at EAWOP's Small Group Meeting, "Age Cohorts in the Workplace: Understanding and Building Strength through Differences", which took place over three days of intense meetings, from 11-13 November at the University of Trento, Italy. Specifically, participants set out to analyze the diverse programs of research from various countries around the world and to develop a better understanding of these different programs of study. Well-known international scholars from Europe, the United States, Canada, and Australia discussed a range of different theoretical and practical questions tied to the aging workforce. The meeting was structured around thematic sessions where scholars presented different research papers, followed by open discussion. Well-known international experts were invited as keynote speakers and opened each of five sessions.

Ruth Kanfer, Georgia Institute of Technology (USA) was the opening keynote speaker. She began the conference by introducing the topic of age and motivation at work. The session continued with paper covering issues such as how to maintain the motivation of workers of different ages.

Next was a session focused on aging and human resources, opened by Jose Maria Peiró, University of Valencia (Spain). The scholars in this session were asked about possible interventions to integrate workers of all ages into the organization, ways to prevent workplace age discrimination, and how to recognize the contributions of different age groups. The debate focused on specific characteristics of work which satisfy people of different ages.

Next, Lisa Finkelstein, Northern Illinois University (USA), introduced the session on age stereotyping, a topic of great interest to scholars for many years. The research papers in this session shed light on the existence of negative stereotypes of workers both young and old – which may lead to discrimination and poor personnel decisions.

In the next session, Annet de Lange, Radboud University Nijmegen (The Netherlands), opened with an overview of work factors which motivate workers. Papers in this session also included issues such as work-life balance.

The last session of research papers covered the transition into retirement and was introduced with a talk by Mo Wang, University of Florida (USA). The discussion focused factors which encourage and support older employees to continue to work and how to support them in retirement. The conference concluded with a discussion of plans for the future, including means for increasing communication among the researchers and plans for future conferences.

In summary, the meeting was an important opportunity to bring together experts from many different topics regarding the aging workforce. As such, it helped to define new lines of research in the field of age and work. More important, it created a strong network of researchers from around the world.

7. Current PhD projects in WOP: 2nd phase

Information about some PhD Projects on WOP is presented below as a result of the second step of collecting such information. (The results of the first phase of collecting such information was presented in the previous ENOP Newsletter, # 60, July, 2011) Data were submitted by the members of the ENOP and reflect current situation in the research area. It is expected that this information will be used for improving collaboration between Universities in training PhD students. The data presented in original form.

Research topics at University of Trento (Team in Work and Organizational Psychology)

1. Age stereotypes in the workplace; how older and younger worker are seen by others in terms of personality, motivation, ability and organizational behavior. In collaboration with S.
